Strategic Energy Management
REDUCE

Energy reduction starts here.

When you're ready to put your strategic energy management (SEM) plan into action, our teams are fully equipped to begin the work and take implementation off your hands. By connecting your plan to the people who can get the job done, you can actively track your project's progress and deliver impactful results to your stakeholders.

Let's create meaningful change.
Unified with a strategic energy plan and common purpose, the real work behind reducing energy usage can truly begin. Whether it is a one-time significant overhaul or moderate changes made over time, we'll work together to lower your energy use year after year.

① Implement
Each energy reduction project is unique. Our in-house teams of Design Build engineers and SEM specialists can handle your complex energy challenges and develop custom plans to address them head-on. From equipment upgrades to energy-saving behavioral changes, we're here to make your large improvements seamless and simple.

② Connect
For anything we can't take on in-house, we'll bring in our broad and diverse network of skilled partners to fill any additional reduction gaps, including technology implementations and energy source transitions, to complete your plan on time and on budget.

③ Manage
Once you've started your energy reduction initiatives, our team will manage the full project and report progress to all key stakeholders through CLEAResult ATLAS™ Energy Management's real-time efficiency dashboard.
